

AN INFERENCE OF IMPEACHMENT

Based on evidence and reasoning I have concluded that our President should be impeached for misconduct in office as well as an aura of quasi-treasonable actions that could arguably appear ‘a betrayal of sovereignty’.

Whoa Nellie! What has this guy been drinking or has his thinking been impaired? What has this nice looking man with the great smile, and a speaking repertoire of articulate magnitude done to warrant this? And one who created history by becoming the first black man to become President of the United States of America! I was one who found him impressive, intelligent with unlimited potential and subscribed to his hope and change rationale. His record, words and conduct argue vehemently against this, now.

Often, he has been seen the product of the classroom, the debating platform instead of the helmsman on the ship of state. Tranquilized by verbiage, moral equivalence when discussing matters of national interest, a tendency to rationalize such events like the Iran election debacle, the Russian invasion of Georgia, and the Israel-Palestine conflict, now compounded by hesitancy over fall of Qaddafi in Libya, the genocide in Syria, and prone to apologize of alleged misdeeds of America while cozying up to Muslim Brotherhood in Egypt, and his oft implication that militant Islam is not a problem.

“Mr. President, we are in an undeclared war, our borders porous, loyalty of our Muslims and many illegal ‘citizens’ are suspect, the fight (still) against the Taliban and al-Qaeda insurgents appears endless while the roadmap to peace between the Jew and the Palestinian has detoured and the ongoing threat of rogue-acting powers seeking nuclear weapons is real and our military, stretched thin and possibly unable to take on any new threat is about to leave the mid-east and Afghanistan while Syria engulfed in genocide auguring further mid east troubles, possible war increase cries out for a US policy of some significance before a real cauldron. On top of this we visualize an ideologue whose ideology reeks of quasi-socialism together with a mountain of debt, rising inflation, and a culture overwhelmed by the financial consequences and continuing unemployment. Are you in charge?”

Benghazi is the albatross around your neck Mr. President. Among your many leadership failings this is the worse and makes Watergate seem like a small-time break in, it was, but lies and cover-up by the Republican administration was the crucible; and many of us see Benghazi likewise. It is a comedy of errors: early warnings of threats sent by Ambassador Stevens, insufficient security there, reaction forces alerted late and a stand-down stopped some, CIA reports apparently altered from terrorist attack to crowd uprising, hence criticism of Muslim video, and 'talking points' changed by high level persons, and the story takes on a life of its own with more questions than answers. A time of when the leader should reconcile or explain. Let me share with you an Army Battalion commander and problems of command and responsibility.

In 1963 I took command of the 1st Bn, 4th Infantry, 3rd Infantry Division, Europe as part of the 7th Army command, NATO forces keeping a wary eye on USSR(Soviet Union)during the COLD War. While dealing with the report of an alleged attack (his baby sitter) by one of my sergeants, a couple of young soldiers, perhaps inebriated stole an Armored Personnel vehicle, roared through the fenced compound on some kind of joyride. As commander, I was responsible for what my unit did or did not do, not the culprits involved-yes they would be charged but I alone was culpable. I get the praise when due, and the blame when at fault. My division commander probably wondered what was happening to this battalion. He questioned me, as he should and my answer was, 'Sir no excuse but I will take necessary action to initiate charges on those involved'. I did and we were fortunate all were in custody soon. And Obama?

You, sir, are responsible for what your administration does or does not do. Benghazi is the product of your policy or lack of it. Like a military commander, you get the credit and the blame, not your Secretary of State, or some hapless person in the chain of command. You should have stepped forward and took charge. You should have spoke to the country and accepted this responsibility but you did not. You should be charged, impeached and found to be guilty if evidence reveals this.

It is said Thomas Jefferson, a man of profound intellect who wanted posterity to see him as a spokesman of revolutionary ideas that would change America. Is this Obama in facsimile?
